Discussion:

Upon checking APU 07 yesterday, found that flood water had risen halfway inside. APU 07 was not running. We were able to salvage the electrical side (solar batteries, wiring, controller) but not the computer itself. Hopefully, the computer will be replaced soon to continue collecting data. Also, the TB at this site had floated approximately 100 yards downstream. I was able to extract and upload that data but it will be out of commission for the remainder of the campaign.

All other APUs are operational and collecting data.
